British Warship Antarctic Bound

Antarctic, Feb. 4.—(P)—A British warship is reported on the way to the Antarctic after Britain formally protested an Antarctic incident.

The British protested Argentine opposition to a British naval landing party near the tip of the Antarctic peninsula of Graham island last Friday. Argentina has already said the incident was a mistake. Reports from London say Sir Miles Clifford, governor of the Falkland islands, is on a frigate going to join the survey ship that was the center of the dispute.

Director of Campfire Girls Visits University Campus

BY BETTY SMITH

"Campfire Girls, incorporated, was literally started over a sink full of dirty dishes," Martha F. Allen of New York City told a group of sociology students on the MSU campus last week.

Miss Allen, national director of Campfire girls, said the program was founded in 1910 when Dr. Luther H. Gulick conceived the idea that girls should concentrate on becoming healthy, strong, women.

They should follow the lead of their mothers, and give their skills to the betterment of the community, Dr. Gulick said.

Purpose Was Incorporated

The program of training girls to become "healthy, adequate, and strong women" was incorporated two years later, Miss Allen said, and since then it has embraced more than 2,000 towns. More than 250,000 girls belong to the organization.

"Region six, to which Missoula belongs, is one of our strongest points," she said.

South Is First Home

Miss Allen, who calls the South her first home, spoke in a distinct

City Firemen Again Called To Campus

A small fire in the law school and a smoke scare brought Missoula firemen to the campus over the week end for the second and third times within the past seven days.

A fire in a wastepaper can at the law school, caused by a carelessly-thrown cigarette, brought firemen to the University for the second time within the week early Saturday night. Monday evening, the fire department had answered a false alarm at the forestry school.

Firemen carried the can with its smoldering contents from the law school building and extinguished the fire. No damage except blistered paint on the waste can was reported.

A smoke scare in Corbin hall early Sunday morning resulted in the fire department's third trip to the campus. The smoke resulted when a night watchman mistakenly turned on the top burner of a kitchen stove.

As part of his regular duties, the watchman was to turn the oven on, but he also turned the top burner on. This caused grease on the stove top to overheat and begin smoking.

GOP Head Calls Report Erroneous

Dillon, Feb. 4.—(P)—State Republican central committee chairman, George Gosman, of Dillon says a published report that Montana's eight delegates are for Senator Robert Taft for President is what he calls "ridiculous."

The report said, and we quote—"Taft has the endorsement of Montana's Republican central committee chairman and the national committeeman and committee-woman." In a state-by-state summary, the story stated that the eight Montana delegates have been promised to Taft.

Says Gosman, "That's as erroneous a story as I've ever heard. The delegates aren't even elected and won't be until May, so how do I or anyone else know who they're going to support?"

"As a matter of fact, to my knowledge," says Gosman, "there's never been an instructed GOP delegation from Montana. I want to point out that there is plenty of Eisenhower sentiment in Montana, along with Taft sentiment."

Delta Gamma Tops Fall Quarter Grade List

Delta Gamma topped the grade index for fall quarter with a scholastic standing of 1.82, an all-time high for sororities. Sigma Phi Epsilon topped this index in spring quarter, 1947, with an average of 1.94.

AP0 Fraternity Will Sponsor Annual Banquets

Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, will sponsor the annual scout father-son banquets Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, according to Dave Kreitzer, Dayton, Ohio, publicity chairman. They will be held at the Loyola school auditorium in observance of Boy Scout week.

The Boy Scout dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday. It will include music by the varsity chamber band of the University, acrobatic twirling by Maxine Hightower, Missoula; the University Jubileers, and a talk by Morris C. Hankins, new president of the Western Montana scout council.

The announcement of the winners in the Boy Scout division of Boy Scout week window display contest will also be made.

The Cub Scout dinners will be Wednesday and Thursday at 6:30 p.m. and entertainment will consist of music, rope twirling, and a display of magic.

The dinners will be sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega while employees of the American Crystal Sugar company will handle the serving. APO members are also sponsoring the window display contest.

Non-fraternity men topped the men's living groups in grade points. All other men's living groups dropped below the all University grade index of 1.47. Sigma Nu was the top fraternity on the list.

Truce Talks Improve; Seven Points Now Settled

Korea, Feb. 4.—(P)—Allied and Communist staff officers are getting down to work again at Panmunjon in the most optimistic spirit in months.

Last night's session produced so many agreements on disputed points that even the most cautious Allied spokesman is convinced a truce might be in sight within the foreseeable future.

Students Do Not Use Job Bureau, Chumrau Says

All seniors interested in using the services provided by the Placement bureau are urged to register now.

"We feel that there are many students we could assist in their job hunting campaigns who are not taking advantage of the placement service," said Paul Chumrau, bureau director.

"It is at this time of the year that employers begin to search for new personnel. Many interviews will be conducted on the campus by employers or representatives of large firms. Unless students are registered with us we can not be of assistance to them," Chumrau said.

Last year 175 June graduates registered with the Placement bureau for business and industrial placement. By June 30, scarcely three weeks after graduation, 67 of the registrants had been placed. The remainder of this group was placed during the summer months.

One hundred fifty-nine students registered last year with the teacher placement service. The bureau was able to place 150 of the registrants in Montana, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Wyoming, California, Alaska, South Dakota, Texas, and Illinois, Chumrau said.

Chumrau urged students who have Placement bureau registration forms to complete them immediately and return them to the Placement bureau offices in Craig hall.

As Rear-Admiral R. O. Libby put it, "I think we are in a position to settle the nuts and bolts of the situation. I think we can get together and write the rest of the agreement."

Last night's meeting settled seven of the points at issue on the exchange of prisoners and supervising an armistice, and they got half way through settling an eighth point. The agreements included a promise by both sides that released prisoners never will fight again in Korea. And an approach to a final figure on how many soldiers can be replaced under rotation.

However, the staff officers still have the biggest nuts to crack, the question of the rebuilding of airfields and the question of voluntary repatriation of prisoners.

The Communists claimed today that they have captured the island of Yuk-To, which is below the 38th parallel off the West Korean coast, but this claim hasn't been confirmed by the Allies. Otherwise, there was little ground fighting today except for patrol action. In the air, American Sabre-jets pounced on 50 Russian MIGs over Northern Korea and damaged two of them.

CAN WIN 40 PER CENT OF UNION VOTES, SAYS TAFT

Charleston, W. Va., Feb. 4.—(P)—Senator Taft predicts that he would win 40 per cent of votes by union members in a presidential election. Taft, on a one-day tour of West Virginia, told an audience at Charleston he would be just as strong with labor as any other Republican candidate and he invited union efforts to make a campaign issue of the Taft-Hartley law.

A Tarnished Reputation

Respect for Bear Paw is often supplanted by a questioning of integrity.

A number of reasons present themselves to help explain the reputation that Bear Paw receives from the public, a reputation that causes low morale among the group.

One is obvious—when thirty men are selected from the freshman class on a basis of service, there will always be some question of the selection. And, unfortunately, the method of selection is one that is open to criticism for it grants a distinct advantage to a freshman who is a member of a fraternity.

Also, invariably there are those who count their house loyalties first and who will sacrifice Bear Paw's reputation for a bigger house representation.

Bear Paw has lost respect in the eyes of the public when it has allowed itself to be used by campus powers. Service is a broad word but it is making it even broader to make it cover some of the functions of Bear Paw.

When Bear Paw has latched onto an attractive proposition, it has relinquished it to their brother campus organizations. Last year, the profitable theater student-card selling was taken over by the M club.

Many of Bear Paw's former service functions have now been taken over by ASMSU committees and more recently by another campus service organization, Alpha Phi Omega.

As a result of these several encroachments on Bear Paw's functions and reputation, the group now enjoys little of the respect to which it is entitled as a sophomore men's service honorary.

Bear Paw, now under the leadership of its own officers, must choose and follow a course that will regain it a respected spot in the public eye.—D.W.

ship includes every woman registered at MSU, makes most of the rules concerning "matters pertaining to the social life of women." This quote is taken from the AWS constitution.

Women on some other campuses may have more liberal hours than we, but Mr. Smith failed to mention that others have stricter ones. Oregon State college, for example, has 10:00 curfew for upperclassmen and 7:30 for freshmen on week nights, with 1:00 on Fridays and Saturdays. At Oklahoma U women must be in at 12:30 Fridays and Saturdays, 10:30 on week nights.

Concerning campuses, the editorial claims that no excuse is good enough, not even unusual circumstances. But, after unusual becomes usual, the AWS council feels that a line has to be drawn.

Enclosed is a complimentary copy of the AWS handbook for future reference for your staff.

Sincerely yours,
Clara Sexton.

EIGHT SORORITY WOMEN OPPOSE UNIVERSITY RULE

Dear Editor:

Your editorial of Jan. 31 was warmly received. We especially agree with the paragraph citing the fact that though parental consent to visit off campus is filed with the university, a written invitation from your out-of-town hostess is necessary before permission to leave campus is given.

Doubtless, more money has been spent on telegrams and long distance phone calls to get invitations on short notice than the University officials have gripes.

Why the University feels it is necessary to have an invitation set before them is beyond our understanding. In case the girl has to be located, her address while off campus would be on her sign-out card.

If the parents choose to give consent to the girl to leave when she wishes, then it is their concern and theirs only where she will stay. We feel parents know their daughters considerably better than university officials do, and if they deem the girl trustworthy enough to give the girl such written permission, it is hard to see why the University must have such proof of the girl's out-of-town residence.

There reaches a time in each girl's life when she should start deciding for herself, and gradually mature through the sense of adult independence she should be able to acquire in college. However, as most of our decisions are made for us by the "helpful" university regulations, we are not given this opportunity.

"He who is trusted, can be."
Hopefully,

EUROPE DOES ABOUT FACE: FREEMAN OFFERS QUOTES

Dear Editor:

The London Economist of Jan. 12 offers an interesting reason for a certain equanimity in Europe in the face of the possibility of the United States electing a Republican president his fall. Events since 1914 have led the Europeans to think of the Democrats as the co-operating internationalists and the Republicans as the retreating isolationists. But, say the Economist's editors:

"The Republicans, after all, include many of the finest elements of the American people; their resources in individual talent are certainly not inferior to those that Mr. Truman has at his command. Their long exclusion from office, it could be held, has not only been infuriating to them, it has now created a situation that is positively dangerous to the stability of American policy—which is the same thing as saying that it should be of concern to all of America's allies. For exclusion from responsibility for so long has had its inevitable result: it has bred irresponsibility."

"Just how far the irresponsibility among the Republicans has gone has been amply demonstrated in the past 12 months. It has been shown in the willingness of otherwise sober and reasonable men, not indeed to believe in Senator McCarthy's ridiculous insinuations, but to refrain from denouncing them (though they threaten to cover Washington in slime) and even to draw political profit from them . . . If Mr. Truman were re-elected it is overwhelmingly probable that he and his Secretary of State would face four more years of the merciless Congressional attack they have suffered in the past 18 months, which would have the effect (as it already has done) of forcing them back upon a rigid, uncompromisingly bellicose position, in which they could indeed cling to the formal outline of their policy, but without any freedom of maneuver, any room for statesmanship within it . . ."

And so, with good logic, it seems to me, the editors of the Economist conclude:

"The only cure for irresponsibility is responsibility . . ."

bility is responsibility . . . Whether or not American policy would be better (within the European definition of the term) with the Republicans in a majority, there is at least a good chance that it would be less dangerous than if there continues to be a Republican minority determined to bind a Democratic president with the toils of its own desperate irresponsibility."

Grizzlies Split With MSC; Take Revenge Saturday

BY JIM PURCELL

After losing to the Montana State college Bobcats Friday night in Bozeman, the University Grizzlies came back Saturday and thoroughly trounce their cross-country rival here, 84 to 56. A packed crowd in the University gym saw Coach Jiggs Dahlberg's proteges play outstanding basketball.

The Grizzlies started in front on a lay-up shot by Silvertip forward Chuck Davis and were never headed. Both teams played erratic ball in the first few minutes, but they soon settled down. The partisan fans roared as tempers flared several times throughout the game.

Freshmen Shine

The outstanding play of freshmen Dick Trinstach and Frank Mickel proved a deciding factor in the Grizzly victory. Trinstach showed much improvement as he grabbed many rebounds for the Grizzlies and hooked several shots from outside the free throw circle. Mickel was exceptional in his ball-drawing and side-court shots.

The Grizzly starting five showed much polish as they bottled up the Bobcat offense throughout the game. Bobcat forward and high scorer Chuck Mitchell was held to nine points. On offense, the Grizzlies used the fast break, slowly wearing the Bobcats down. The Grizzly team play, although ragged at times, was exceptional, with center Dale Johnson and Davis picking for many points. Johnson was much improved as he tipped several.

Grizzly Guards Were Hot

Grizzly guards Hal Sherbeck and Eddie Anderson played stellar all-around. Anderson's mid-court shot came seconds before the half brought the crowd to its feet. In the second half, Dahlberg used his second-string players and before the game was over he had swept the Grizzly bench.

As was the case the night before in Bozeman, numerous fouls were called, 78 in all. Bobcat scoring was held to a minimum and it is probable that the Grizzlies could have hit 100 points if Dahlberg had left the first string play.

In the series opener Friday night, the Grizzlies led most of the first half, but the Bobcats put in a spirited drive in the last half to overtake the Silvertips and win by 13 points, 69 to 56.

Free Throws Decide Game

It was a rough and tumble ball game, with the Silvertips collecting 35 of 55 fouls. The Bobcat margin of victory came at the free throw line as they hit 29 gift shots. The Grizzlies scored highest from the field, 21 to 20. Bobcat forward Chuck Mitchell led all scorers with 19 points. He and center Perry McCahill were outstanding on rebounds, while the Grizzlies were weak in hitting only 5 per cent of their shots.

Balanced scoring by the Bobcats kept the Grizzlies at bay and the Bobcat defense was strong enough to keep Chuck Davis from scoring.

Cowboys Get First Place In Hoop Race

The Wyoming Cowboys took over first place in the Skyline basketball race with two wins last week end, while defending champion Brigham Young dropped into second place after losing their only two conference games of the season.

Wyoming beat Colorado A and M at Fort Collins Thursday night by a 58-45 score, and defeated Denver, 60-52, at Laramie Saturday night. Meanwhile, BYU lost to Utah State, 57-40, in the upset of the week at Logan Friday night, and to Utah, 51-48, at Provo Saturday night.

Wyoming Toys with Aggies

Wyoming's reserves toyed with the Colorado Aggies in an easy game Thursday. Denver's hustling Pioneers kept pace with the fast Cowboys for three quarters Saturday at Laramie, but it was Wyoming's use of fresh reserves that spelled defeat for the Denverites. Wyoming beat Colorado State, 72-44, in a non-conference game at Laramie on Friday night.

The Utah State Aggies lived up to their role as the conference giant killers when they upset the conference leading BYU Cougars Friday night. The Utahs upset Wyoming to give the Cowboys their only conference loss earlier in the season. Utah's triumph over BYU Saturday night was the first defeat suffered by the Cougars in their new field house at Provo. The win also enabled Utah to remain in the No. 3 spot in Skyline standings.

Utah State Gets Fourth

Utah State moved into undisputed possession of fourth place by virtue of their BYU upset and a 68-52 victory over New Mexico Saturday night at Logan. Montana climbed into fifth position with a 74-64 win over New Mexico Thursday night, and Denver dropped to sixth after their loss to Wyoming.

Skyline standings:

Team	W	L	Pct.	Points
Wyoming	7	1	.875	626-387
Brigham Young	5	2	.714	422-364
Utah	6	3	.667	499-465
Utah State	4	3	.571	377-378
Montana	3	4	.429	411-499
Denver	2	4	.333	335-345
Colorado A and M	2	6	.250	441-451
New Mexico	1	7	.125	456-578

Forward Bobby Sparks led the Silvertip attack with 15 points. Sherbeck added 11 as Grizzly offense and defense were definitely weak.

Deacons, Corbin Hoopsters Win; SN Gets Credit

The Deacons and the No Names moved into the win column in league B Saturday. The Deacons edged the Rodeo club, 34 to 33, and the No Names won by forfeit from the Foresters, 2 to 0. In league A games Corbin won a close one over the Angels, 38 to 36, and the Junior Varsity beat Sigma Nu, 52 to 40.

Bill Reynolds dropped in 13 points for the Deacons and was in control of both boards. John Swanson kept the Rodeo attack going and hit for 14 points. In the Corbin hall-Angel game, Rod Jones and Byron Robb got 15 points each for Corbin, while Keith Dyas collected 13 for the Angels.

Tall Ralph Ripke poured 20 points through the net for Sigma Nu, but Ed Chinske's JV's were too much for the Nus. George Samuelson was high for the JVs with 16 counters.

Standings:

Phi Epsilon Kappa	3	0
Sigma Alpha Epsilon	3	0
Sigma Nu	3	0

Sigma Nu, although they lost to the Junior Varsity, will be given a win in League A standings because the Junior Varsity is not an official entry in intramural play.

TRI DELTS RACK UP THIRD STRAIGHT VICTORY

Delta Delta Delta won its third straight game in women's basketball when it defeated New hall No. 2, 37 to 22, last night. High scorer of the Tri Delt team was Jean'ne Shreeve, Milltown, with 19 points. Camille Johnson, Perma, scored 18 points for New.

Best fights of the nine-bout card were Dick Hubbard's split decision win over John Notti and Chuck Shelton's win over tall Dan McDonald. Both of these fights were slug fests from start to finish and kept the crowd of 1,400 on the edge of their seats every minute.

Results of bouts:

Bob Fraser, last year's welter-weight champion, was scheduled to fight Lew West from Anaconda but West did not show.

The Independents were second in total points with 10, Sigma Chi was third with nine, Sigma Nu fourth, and Phi Sigma Kappa was fifth with one point.

Brigham Young and Utah are the Grizzly foes this week end at the University gym. BYU plays MSU Friday; Utah Saturday.

and is being used there for the orientation of youth to democratic ways.

"The Campfire program has been used by missionaries all over the world, and in the leper colonies of the Philippines."

Program Emphasis

Emphasis of Campfire girls is placed on the therapeutic value of play, she said. That, is the value of play without having to learn to be "just good citizens." Bluebirds, younger edition of Campfire girls, have strictly a play program.

A basic part of the program, she said, is training the girls to be good group members. Equally as important is teaching them to learn to be alone.

"The person who can't be alone is a very sad person," she said.

Awards, Not Rewards

Awards were never meant to be used as a reward for doing something, she pointed out, but in recognition of something accomplished.

Campfire girls is the only program of its kind that uses both men and women on the policy-making level, she said. Miss Allen is the first national director of the group. All preceding directors were men. She has been in Campfire work for ten years.

Training Begins Early

The girls start overnight camping at an early age, she said, depending on the policy of the individual group.

"We think Boy Scouts start too old. Girls are excellent campers at seven or eight years old," she said.

Executive Training

Executives of the Campfire program are trained on the job, Miss Allen said. Free orientation courses are given each year on a regional basis.

Rather than set a policy for the regional directors to follow, she said, the executives leave the directing to the individual leaders. They try to help executive directors "train trainers."
